

It's 7:00 Monday morning.
Do you know where your cleaning budget is?

(We can help.)

PUR-O-ZONE

You cannot just “feel” where your staffing and work
loading need to be.
You need to know
for sure now.

You must understand how your latest budget - which may have just landed on your desk in the past 30 days - stacks up against:

- A. What are realistic work loading expectations now for the amount of square footage we are cleaning?
- B. What level of clean can we actually achieve with our new, reduced staffing?

PUR-O-ZONE can tell you these answers with a Variable Field Analysis Report. The VFAR is really easy for you. We simply need to ask you three figures that you probably have ready access to. We will then return to you a report detailing how you compare based on hard data from over 200,000,000 square feet in 3,000 institutional buildings.

Objective, accurate data.

PUR-O-ZONE

VFAR will show the low end and the high end of 10 key areas you need to have a handle on – now more than ever – and where to start to answer some very important questions.

- 1) How many people should it take to clean our facility?
- 2) How can we increase productivity with fewer people?
- 3) How much product should we now be using to clean and protect adequately?
- 4) How can we maintain quality standards under these new budget constraints?
- 5) How can we educate our best employees to deal with these challenges?
- 6) What are our revised cleaning priorities?
- 7) How can we lower our total costs without losing our best personnel?

“My cleaning budget has been cut so many times, I wonder if there’s enough left to do the job at hand?”

There is no cost to you for the VFAR or the Baseline Evaluation.
